TODAY'S NEWS FOR TOMORROW'S BUSINESS

EUROPE'S FIRST INDOOR ASIAN SHOPPING CENTRE

The heart of East London is buzzing with the opening of a new boutique Asian Shopping Centre in the bustling Green Street shopping district. The multi-million pound project comprises 35 two-story units, a 17 unit Souk and a spacious food court, bringing a taste of the world's flavours to Green Street.

The project has been spearheaded by ACR Investments Ltd, who said: "We couldn't be more excited to be making history with East Shopping Centre, being the first development of its kind in Europe. Green Street is already a major hub for people to shop for clothes, food, accessories and everything in between. Our aim is for East Shopping Centre to enhance the street's appeal and expand on this vibrant shopping destination by attracting new consumers and businesses."

FROM RAGS TO RICHES

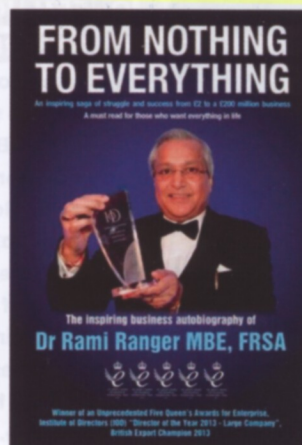

Rami Ranger, the award-winning business owner of Sun Mark, philanthropist and political reformer shares his inspiring story to the top in his new book From Nothing to Everything.

Beginning with a dramatic flight from home during the turmoil of the break-up of India in 1947, Rami's journey takes in the assassination of his father, childhood hardship, emigration to England and the long fight against prejudice to achieve success on a scale he could hardly have imagined as a naive young immigrant in London in 1971.

Having founded his first enterprise with just £2 and a typewriter in 1987, Rami now oversees Sun Mark, a £180 million-a-year operation that has become one of Britain's fastest-growing businesses.

Commenting on the book, Rami said: "I considered writing this book after the London riots of 2010. I listened to many young people who were interviewed at the time, saying that society was stacked against them and that they had no motivation in life. I wanted to tell my story to these people to tell them that no matter what life throws at you, if you have the right attitude and ethics, there are opportunities out there and you can have all that you might desire."

En route from poverty to riches, Rami offers lessons in business and lessons in life. The story, told in his own words, provides an inspiration for anyone who faces obstacles in their quest to fulfil their dreams and ambitions.

From Nothing to Everything by Rami Ranger is available in all good bookshops.
